La Genial Cake – Lagos Mass-Market Launch Strategy

Growth Marketing Case Study | Durojaiye Adetoke

Overview

La Genial Cake is a ₦200 packaged sponge snack targeting Lagos' high-frequency impulse snack market. This strategy models a retail-first growth approach that prioritizes strong store sell-through and sustainable unit economics.

Market Opportunity

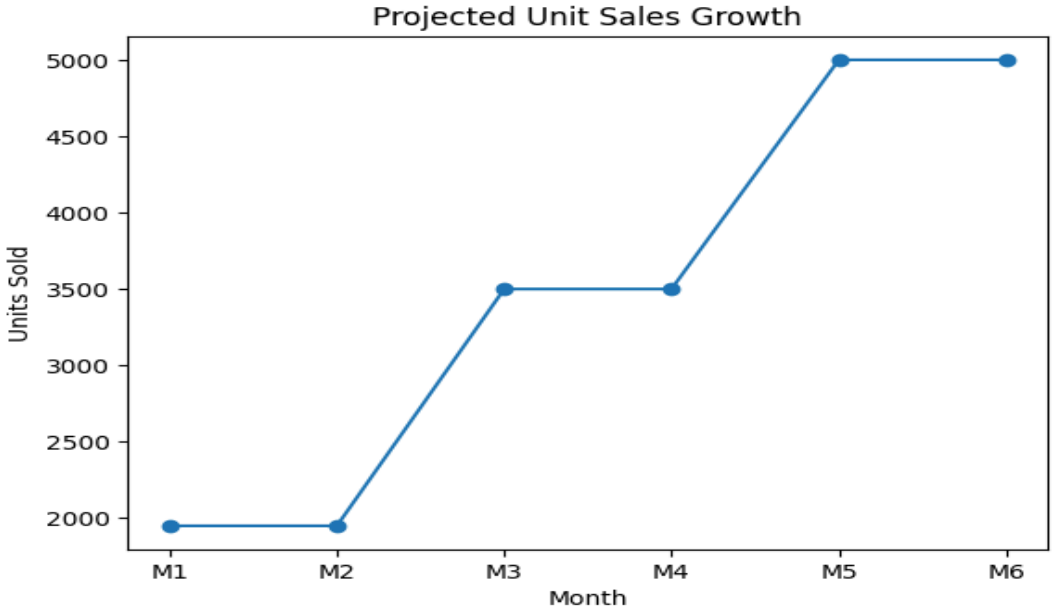
Lagos has a population of over 20 million residents with strong demand for affordable snack products. However, many small FMCG products struggle to scale due to weak distribution and low retail velocity.

Unit Economics Snapshot

Selling Price	₦200
Contribution Margin	₦72 per unit
Break-even Volume	1,802 packs / month
Initial Sales Target	1,950 packs / month
Projected Profit at Scale	₦230,700 / month

Growth Projection

Distribution expansion increases monthly unit sales from 1,950 packs to approximately 5,000 packs by month six.



Campaign Example

Campaign Concept: “Softness You Can Feel” — Meta ads and in-store promotions highlight product texture and freshness while driving retail purchases.
Insert Campaign Ad Mockup Image Below:

Key Insight

Retail velocity and disciplined distribution are the primary drivers of scalable growth for low-price FMCG products in emerging markets.